Large Output of Sugar - Beet Crop Exceeds Estimate.

Special Correspondence. Lehi, Utah Co., Nov. 18.-Miss Elizabeth Austin and F. E. McKeage were maried on Nov. 15 at Winnemucca, Nev. Mrs. McKeage is the daughter of State Representative-elect Geo. Austin of this place, and the granddaughter of the late A. N. and Elizabeth McFarlane of Salt Lake City. Mr. James C. Gough who has been one of the foremen of the Utah sugar factory for the past four years has a cepted a position with the Loveland Beet Sugar Co. of Loveland, Colo., and left for that place Sunday morning last. Mr. Gough while in the employ of the Utah Sugar Co. was a very use ful and energetic young man, and from his long experience in the beet sugar business will undoubtedly be a very valuable man in his new field of labor as night superintendent of the Loveland sugar factory.

SUGAR OUTPUT.

The Utah sugar factory is still run ning very smoothly and the total yield of beets will exceed the estimate, as there is now weighed in over 74,000 tons and there is about 10,000 more tons yet to come in. The harvest has been re tarded somewhat on account of the farmers not being able to secure the requisite number of cars for the transportation of the beets and as the weather is quite threatening those who have beets yet in the field are very anxious to get them out. There is now something like thirteen million pounds of sugar sacked and approximately 30. 000 tons of beets more to be sliced.

Utah Woman's Story of Her Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. E. J. Hislop Praises Kickapoo Indian Sagwa For Her Health and Strength.

"Is life worth living?" inquired the pessimist with a snarl. "Well, that depends upon the liver! replied the wit and even the pessimists all over the world will admit that he is right. There are people who don't know they have a liver. They are indeed for-tunate. Their liver is in such perfect working order that it never troubles them and so they don't know that they There are tens of thousands of others who know very well they have

The man or woman who has liver complaint is to be pitied. Suffering day in and day out is their portion—until they are ready to exclaim that life is ot worth the trouble, the pain and the suffering. A bad liver robs a man of health and strength and happiness. Yes, and it robs him of success, for no one can succeed who is suffering.

There is just one thing to do if you ave liver complaint and want to get rell and that is take Kickapoo Indian Sagwa. Of course if you want to keep n trying one doctor after another and spending your money but getting no better, why it's your privilege, only in the end you will have to come to the kickapoos for real relief and permanent cure. o the great advance in building matereen the time of voting the tax and the letting of the contract, had been the cause of its actual cost overreaching the estimate in the sum of $1,300 this being the contract for the steam heating plant installed therein. He also explained how the above amount was to be reached without a material inrease in the taxes of another season The building in its now completed condition cost $6,300. All the contract work was done by Springville people, their bids being the lowest, except the instalation of the heating plant.

Superintendent L. E. Eggertson said that the architecture, plan, furniture and equipment of the building were up to date in every particular. He referred briefly to the great advancement along onal lines during the past fifty years. The principal of the new building, Miss Julia Alleman, was then introduced. She made forceful remarks on character building.

Oliver B. Huntington, who has the listinction of being one of the first disrict school teachers in Utah, offered the dedicatory prayer. The song, "Our New School,' composed by Miss Ida Alleman, teacher, was then rendered with great enthusiasm by the teachers and pupils assembled.

grower of our acquaintance in Alachua county, says the Florida Times-Union, one season shipped 5,500 crates of cucumbers, for which he rechecks aggregating between $4, 800 and $4,900. His entire expenses for cultivation, fertilizer, picking, etc., amounted to about $1,600; 5,500 crates at 70 cents each cost $385. Total outlay about $2,005, leaving $2,800 or $2,900, as his net profit from a 20 acre field, or about $140 an acre. The same season a Duval county trucker planted nearty an acre, "had everything booming" when the first week in March the frost killed all his stuff. He cheerfully replanted everything, and about the second week in May he had beans and cucumbers galore. Shipped to a commission mer-chant in Fulton Market, New York—returns of the strictly Irish persuasion Got a glowing circular and stencil from a firm in Cleveland, O. Shipped him 12 crates of cukes by express; paid the charges himself in advance; got returns imounting to $4.90 less than the express

What was the difference between the wo men? The first one had been in the business 20 years; he knew his com-mission men, he knew his route, his times and seasons, he knew his cucum-bers, he knew right where and when and how to place them so that they would do the most good. The other man was not inaptly represented by one of his cucumbers—full of a mild, innocuous pulp dotted with immature seeds. That Fuiton Market commission merchant was created and ordained to re-lieve him of some of the succulence of his roseate youth. A horticulturist of Clay county shipped the peaches from 19 trees, very early varieties, amounting to 40 bushels. He shipped them in smal weich, who leaves shortly for the castern States mission, gave him a surprise part. A very pleasant evening the north, many chimneys and ceilings was spent and about 40 pyrons partook of the excellent picnic. On the 14th the brass band of which he was once a firm; and in order to secure peaches of just the right stage of ripeness he culled the entire 19 trees at every pick ing, sometimes selecting onlya dozen from each tree that suited his fastidious fancy. He shipped them by express—time, two days or less—at an expense of $3.85 per bushel. All except one package sold for $12 per bushel or over; and the group of his 18 trees perfect. one package sold for $12 per busnel or over; and the crop of his 19 trees netted him about $325. The writer saw two of his account sales. Another grower in Marion county shipped at the same time, well packed, a number of bushels of Peento and Honey peaches, which are excellent for home use, but no good travelers. He shipped them by reight-nominal time, four days; actual time, six or seven days. He netted $5.48 "total loss over the above letting them rot on the trees." They rotted on the rail. One grower had the brightness and daring of genius; the other unable to grasp the opportunity at once, which is the secret of 99 per cent of success through life.

WHAT TO DO.

One of my neighbors, says a writer in Farm and Gardening, in trying to push a stable door shut ran a nall in his hand. He paid no attention to it and blood poison set in; his arm had o be amputated to save his life, and ow he has to go through the world with one hand. Another neighbor has just run a nail in his foot and is suffering from blood poison and is in a precarious condition. The thing to do when injured by being pricked by a rusty nail, or an old splinter, or anything of the kind is thing of the kind, is to saturate the wound with turpentine. This is both safe and soothing. It does not pay to endanger one's life just on account of not knowing what to do for the wound made by a rusty poll. made by a rusty nail,
